

Four Year Guides

Spring 2019

What are Four Year Guides?

A Four Year Guide is one example of how a student may complete a specific degree in four years. Each department was asked to create a Four Year Guide for each major/concentration in the department.

Who should use the Four Year Guides?

Four Year Guides are available for students who are on the 2013-2014 catalog year and later. It is important to use the four-year guide that matches the student's catalog year. Curricula change year to year, so following the wrong four year guide can lead to graduation shortages.

How can Four Year Guides be used?

Students may use the Four Year Guide as a starting point when creating an individual four year plan. Students should first mark through any coursework that has been completed at ASU or transferred into the University. Then the remaining requirements must be reorganized to fill semesters with full-time schedules. When reordering the remaining courses, students should use the Undergraduate Bulletin and the major program of study to determine:

- Prerequisites for courses
- When courses are taught (fall, spring, or alternate semesters)
- Which elective courses may be appropriate for their majors
- Required courses for minors
